

FROM AWARENESS TO ACTION: MAKING THE ATHLETIC TRAINING ROOM A SAFE SPACE

Purpose/Gap:

Athletic trainers provide care for a diverse patient population, including neurodivergent individuals. Despite the growing recognition of neurodiversity in healthcare and sport settings, educational resources for athletic trainers remain limited. Currently, the NATA EducATe platform offers one continuing education course addressing this topic, Neurodivergent Athletes: What Do I Need to Know?. Expanding educational opportunities related to neurodiversity is essential to better equip athletic trainers with the knowledge and skills needed to effectively support neurodivergent patients. Increasing education in this area will enhance comprehensive patient-centered care and improve the ability of ATs to meet the diverse needs of the population served.

Learning Objectives:

- Distinguish difference in neurodivergent diagnoses.
- Provide applicable, actionable steps to create an athletic training safe space.
- Understand how neurodivergence presents in the student-athlete population.
